

1. Table row wrap disabled

When table row wrapping is disabled, if one of the cells of a row does not fit in the available space of the current page, the whole row will be moved on the next one.

2. Table row wrap enabled

When table row wrapping is enabled, cells which contain styled paragraphs that don't fit in the available space of the current page will wrap across pages. Other components behave as usual. If they fit in the available space, they remain there. Otherwise, they are placed on the next page.
